The Window Shop was known to many as a retail store, bakery and café. To those that were refugees to the United States beginning in 1939 and the following three decades, the Window Shop provided employment opportunities, money for children's education through a scholarship fund, immigration advice, friendship and reassurance. The Window Shop became one of the most progressive and diverse non-profit organizations in the Boston area. The women on this special Women's History Month panel will talk to us about the entrepreneurial spirit of the women who ran the shop as well as their vision for an organization that helped newcomers to the U.S.
